This easygoing Hunter vineyard oasis showcases the integrity of Lovedale's food and wine. Chef Ben Sales cajoles local farmers, fishermen and foragers, then applies his impressive culinary skills to the best they deliver – Wallarobba rabbit terrine is wrapped in smokehouse speck with pickled vegetables and sherried prune drizzle; twice-baked local cheese soufflé comes with blue-cheese sauce, white grapes and walnut crumble. Prosciutto-wrapped Barrington beef fillet comes with caramelised shallot tarte Tatin, and a confit leg of Nulkaba duckling with cassoulet of white beans and country sausage with orange and tamarind jus. These are regional, seasonal dishes created with unerring instincts. Knockout handmade desserts and vineyard wines at cellar door prices with a savvy selection from other Lovedale wineries make this a landmark regional dining experience.
